Date: 17th September 2025

Time: 09:30 – 12:00

Location: Via MS Teams

Audience: Health and social care professionals, police, housing officers, and anyone else working with vulnerable adults.

When vulnerable adults are not engaging with services, are we doing enough to understand why? This thought-provoking event will explore the challenges professionals face when individuals are "out of sight"—and what more we can do to ensure they are not out of mind or at risk of harm.

Drawing on recent Adult Support and Protection (ASP) learning reviews, we will examine situations where services struggled to engage meaningfully with individuals at risk. Through expert insights and real-world case reflections, we'll ask: Are we truly listening, adapting, and responding in ways that meet people where they are?

Brought to you by the Grampian Adult Support & Protection Learning & Development Group this is the first in a series of ASP themed events.
